DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being fully met by Naples et al. See especially paragraph 0031.

Regarding Applicant's arguments, Applicant's claims do not require a "real musical instrument," Applicant's disclosure does not define a "real musical musical instrument," and the input devices 52,54,56 read on the musical instruments claimed. It is well-known in the modern art of electronic musical instruments that a drum pad 56, for example, is considered a musical instrument. Naples et al further discloses creating a mixed digital signal of both the processed digital audio signal of the musical instrument 50 and a digital audio file 116,120. See especially paragraph 0060. Regarding the 'proper timing to allow the user to play in conjunction,' see guide track 30.

Claims 1-10, 16-24,30-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being fully met by Miller.

Regarding Applicant's arguments, Applicant's claims do not require a "real musical instrument," Applicant's disclosure does not define a "real musical musical instrument," and the input devices 22,25,26 read on the musical instruments claimed. It is well-known in the modern art of electronic musical instruments that a keyboard 22, for example, is considered a musical instrument. Miller further discloses creating a mixed digital signal of both the processed digital audio signal of the musical instrument 167 and a digital audio file 170. See especially Col. 10, lines 47-67. Regarding the 'proper timing to allow the user to play in conjunction,' Miller uses time-stamping to accomplish this – see Col 13.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
